Only by Protecting Nature Can We Secure the Future of Coming Generations: Odela Chandramouli

“Hanmakonda, July 27 (Indian Chronicle) : On the occasion of World Conservation Day, environmentalist Odela Chandramouli stressed the urgent need to create awareness about conserving natural resources, protecting biodiversity, maintaining ecological balance, and ensuring a healthy planet for future generations.“Referring to the Atharva Veda verse, "Mata Bhumi Putro'ham Prithivya" ("The Earth is my mother, and I am her son"), he said the message reminds humanity of its deep bond with nature and its responsibility to protect it. Conserving nature, he said, is not a choice but a duty.“Speaking to the media on Monday, Odela Chandramouli noted that the world is currently facing serious environmental challenges such as climate change, land, air, water, and noise pollution, plastic waste, deforestation, and depletion of groundwater resources. These issues, he warned, are no longer threats to nature alone but also to human survival.“He said biodiversity forms the foundation of life on Earth and pointed out that while many species have already become extinct, many more are at risk. Every living organism has an equal right to exist on this planet, he said, adding that safeguarding nature's wealth for future generations is the responsibility of every individual.“Chandramouli explained that rising global temperatures are causing polar ice to melt, sea levels to rise, and increasing the frequency of floods, droughts, heatwaves, and wildfires. Even a small rise in global temperature, he said, can have severe long-term consequences for ecosystems and human society.“He further observed that excessive exploitation of natural resources, deforestation, pollution, and unsustainable development are putting the Earth's future at risk. True development, he emphasized, means progressing in harmony with nature rather than destroying it.“Citing global statistics, he said the Earth's average temperature has already risen by more than 1°C above pre-industrial levels. Every year, nearly 10 million hectares of forests are lost worldwide, around one million species face the threat of extinction, and millions of tonnes of plastic waste enter the oceans, endangering marine life.“He stressed that environmental protection is not solely the responsibility of governments. Every family, student, farmer, and citizen should contribute by planting trees, reducing plastic use, conserving water, using electricity responsibly, and protecting biodiversity.“Quoting the saying, "We do not inherit the Earth from our ancestors; we borrow it from our children," he urged people to make it a guiding principle in their lives.“Recalling the words of Chinese philosopher Lao Tzu, "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step," Chandramouli said that the movement to protect the environment also begins with small individual actions.“He appealed to the public to plant a tree, refuse a plastic bag, save every drop of water, protect every living being, safeguard nature, and preserve the Earth for future generations.

Medical Team's Tireless Efforts to Save Patient at Kakatiya Hospital; Woman Dies After Five-Day Battle

““MEDIPALLY, JULY 27 (INDIAN CHRONICLE):“A 40-year-old woman, identified as Shobha, who was admitted to Kakatiya Hospital in Medipally in a critical condition following a severe heart attack, passed away on Saturday morning despite five days of intensive treatment. Doctors said she suffered multiple life-threatening complications, including cardiac arrest, severe heart damage, kidney failure, and prolonged ventilator support.“According to the treating doctors, Shobha began experiencing severe chest pain, breathlessness, excessive sweating, and dizziness around 4:00 a.m. on July 20. Her family initially rushed her to Pulse Hospital, where doctors diagnosed a heart attack, provided emergency first aid, and advised immediate transfer to a hospital with advanced cardiac care facilities.“She was then shifted to Srikara Hospital, where doctors conducted preliminary investigations and informed the family that an urgent angiogram and stent implantation were necessary. She was subsequently taken to Kakatiya Hospital in Medipally for further treatment.“Shortly after arriving at Kakatiya Hospital, Shobha suddenly collapsed and suffered a cardiac arrest. The emergency medical team immediately performed continuous cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for nearly 15 minutes, after which her heart-beat was successfully restored. She was placed on ventilator support, underwent an emergency angiogram, and a blocked coronary artery was opened with the placement of a stent after obtaining the family's consent.“However, doctors said her condition remained extremely critical due to severely reduced heart pumping function, persistent low blood pressure, and inadequate blood supply to other vital organs. Cardiologists informed the family that her chances of survival were only around five percent.“The medical team provided all possible advanced life-support measures, including medications to improve heart function, maintain blood pressure, and prevent blood clotting. Doctors also explained that because her heart had stopped for about 15 minutes, her brain and other organs may have suffered irreversible damage due to lack of oxygen.“Throughout her treatment, the hospital kept the family informed about her condition and also advised that she could be shifted to a higher medical centre if required.“On July 24, tests revealed that her kidney function had also deteriorated significantly. Rising creatinine levels and reduced urine output indicated the need for Continuous Renal Replacement Therapy (CRRT), a specialised form of dialysis. Since this facility was not available at Kakatiya Hospital, doctors advised the family to consider shifting her to a hospital equipped with CRRT. However, the family requested that treatment continue at Kakatiya Hospital.“Despite the medical team's relentless efforts, Shobha suffered another cardiac arrest at around 10:20 a.m. on Saturday. Doctors performed CPR for nearly an hour, but she did not respond. After an ECG examination confirmed the absence of cardiac activity, she was declared dead. Medical experts said the incident once again highlights the importance of recognising the warning signs of a heart attack and reaching a specialised cardiac care facility without delay, as timely intervention can significantly improve the chances of survival.

Political Conspiracy Behind All-Party Meeting in Devender Nagar: Jenna Raju

““““I Will Not Be Intimidated by False Allegations”““Plans to File Defamation Cases Against Those Making Baseless Accusations”“““BODUPPAL, JULY 27 (INDIAN CHRONICLE):“Congress youth leader Jenna Raju, from Devender Nagar Colony under the Boduppall Circle of the Malkajgiri Municipal Corporation, addressed a press conference on Monday, alleging that certain political leaders were conspiring against him by making false accusations.“He stated that some leaders were falsely linking him to a dispute that took place last month and were making irresponsible statements without any evidence. According to him, political pressure was exerted on the police to register a false case against him.“Referring to the all-party meeting held in Devender Nagar Colony on Sunday, Jenna Raju alleged that leaders from various political parties were invited solely to defame him. He announced that he would soon file defamation cases against everyone making false allegations.“Raju said that he had already clarified in a press conference last month that neither he nor his younger brother had any involvement in the incident. Despite this, he alleged that some Boduppall political leaders, unable to tolerate his political growth, were deliberately spreading false propaganda against him.“He claimed that the dispute had actually started after a 65-year-old man, Yakaiah, had an argument with the owner of a house during a housewarming ceremony. He questioned why no political leader had honestly explained the real cause of the incident. He also pointed out that several women had spoken to the media about the alleged assault on the elderly man.“Raju questioned why CCTV footage showing the elderly man allegedly abusing the house owner had not been made public. He further alleged that CCTV footage of the attack on the elderly man was also being deliberately withheld. He accused Vishnu Goud, whom he described as the owner of an illegal belt shop rather than a journalist, of politicising the issue and fabricating allegations, claiming that the truth would expose the illegal belt shop and lead to legal action against it.“He further alleged that leaders who attended the all-party meeting had themselves been involved in assaults and land encroachment in the past. He claimed to possess documents relating to such encroachments and warned that if they continued making false allegations and threatening him, he would expose their corruption and illegal activities with evidence.“Jenna Raju also claimed that the so-called all-party meeting did not represent the residents of Devender Nagar Colony, stating that only a handful of local residents attended while most participants came from other colonies in Boduppall.“He alleged that every political leader in the area was aware of the existence of illegal belt shops in Devender Nagar but was deliberately ignoring that issue. Reiterating his allegations against Vishnu Goud, he maintained that Goud was not a reporter but an illegal belt shop owner, and accused political leaders of knowingly supporting false allegations against him.“Raju further alleged that certain Boduppall political leaders had illegally sold plots by creating forged notarised documents, even though those plots had already been legally registered in the names of genuine owners. He said that when the rightful owners approached him for assistance, he helped them construct houses on their legally owned plots. He claimed that this had angered those involved in the alleged land fraud, leading them to target him politically. Concluding the press conference, Jenna Raju asserted that the allegations against him were politically motivated and promised to expose those responsible with documentary evidence in the near future.
