Saving Electricity Means Saving Money

"Kumrambheem, Asifabad, District Reporter "Indian Chronicle" September.23. "Lower Electricity Bills, More Savings "Reducing Unnecessary Consumption Helps Protect the Environment "Small Saving Measures Can Lead to Significant Monthly and Annual Savings Asifabad: Saving electricity not only helps reduce electricity bills but also benefits household finances, the stability of the power system, conservation of natural resources and environmental protection, said Komuram Bheem Asifabad Circle Superintending Engineer Uttam Jade. He said that even a small reduction in unnecessary electricity consumption by individual households can have a significant impact on overall power demand when lakhs of families follow the same practice. "Saving electricity is not merely about reducing the bill; it is also about preparing for future electricity requirements," he said. "Direct Financial Benefit to Consumers "Using electricity efficiently reduces the number of units consumed and can consequently bring down electricity bills. For example, if a family saves two units of electricity every day, it can save around 60 units a month and approximately 730 units a year. He noted that while daily savings may appear small, the cumulative savings over months and years can provide significant financial benefits. The actual monetary saving depends on factors such as the consumer's tariff, slab, consumption pattern and efficiency of electrical appliances. "Major Scope for Savings in AC Usage "Air conditioners are among the major electricity-consuming appliances in households. Using an AC at 24°C or above, instead of setting unnecessarily low temperatures, can help reduce electricity consumption, he explained. Regularly cleaning AC filters, keeping doors and windows closed while the AC is running, and switching off the AC when the room is unoccupied can also contribute to electricity savings. "Simple Ways to Save Electricity Every Day "Switch off unnecessary lights immediately. "Avoid running fans in unoccupied rooms. "Use air conditioners only when required. "Use geysers, water heaters and electric irons only when necessary. "Switch off appliances completely instead of leaving them on standby. "Check the BEE star rating before purchasing new electrical appliances. "Make maximum use of natural daylight during the daytime. "Give priority to natural ventilation in homes. "Benefits of Saving Electricity "Reduced electricity consumption can lower household electricity bills, allowing families to use the saved money for other essential needs. "Helping

manage rising power demand: "If every household saves some electricity, overall demand can be reduced, helping ease pressure on the power system, particularly during peak-demand periods. "Reducing unnecessary pressure on the power system: "Reducing avoidable consumption during periods of high demand can help in more efficient management of electricity generation, transmission and distribution systems. "Benefits for Future Generations "Using electricity responsibly and avoiding wastage can help conserve resources while keeping future electricity requirements in mind. Efficient energy use can also help reduce pressure on energy resources and contribute to environmental protection. "Potential to Extend Appliance Life "Using electrical appliances properly and only when required, along with regular maintenance, can improve their performance and potentially extend their service life, the Superintending Engineer said. "Every Unit Saved Is Valuable "One family saving a small amount of electricity every day may seem insignificant. But when lakhs of families adopt the same habit, it can have a significant impact on overall electricity demand. Electricity conservation provides financial benefits to families, supports the power system and benefits future generations," the Superintending Engineer said. He urged consumers to make electricity conservation a part of their daily lifestyle rather than treating it as a one-day campaign. "The Superintending Engineer emphasized that using electricity efficiently and responsibly is the responsibility of every consumer.

Mascarenhas Reels In Kadur to Win Rally of Coimbatore by 23 Seconds as INRC Round 2 Is Settled in the Gravel Dust

“Hyderabad: “The FMSCI Indian National Rally Championship (INRC) 2026 arrived in Coimbatore for Round 2, and the gravel roads around the city gave it a finish worth the journey. The Blueband Sports Rally of Coimbatore was contested on September 19 and 20 by 64 competitors. “Eight runs, two stages, one long argument“Over two days the crews faced eight stage runs and 110.80 km of competitive distance, almost entirely on gravel. Saturday’s loop ran Black Thunder (13.50 km) and S.M. Agro (14.20 km) twice each. On Sunday the same roads came back in reverse, as S.M. Agro (R) and Black Thunder (R), so crews had to read familiar ground from the other direction. “Saturday belonged to Karna Kadur and Musa Sherif of ARKA Motorsports. The former National champion was quickest of the leading pair on both of the opening stages and ended the day at the head of the field. Close behind came Fabid Ahmer and Milen George, 5.6 seconds back. Dean Mascarenhas and Gagan Karumbaiah were third, just over nine seconds adrift, with plenty of road left. “Sunday brought the turn. On S.M. Agro (R) Mascarenhas took nearly nine seconds from Kadur and moved past Ahmer. The gap to the leader shrank to 0.148 seconds, smaller than a blink. On Black Thunder (R) he found a rhythm Kadur could not answer, taking more than 14 seconds in a single run. Mascarenhas was the faster of the two on every stage from SS3 onward, and he crossed the line in 1:36:19.777, 23.482 seconds clear. Kadur, the former National champion, never stopped pushing, and finished second in 1:36:43.259. “Dean Mascarenhas said, “Karna and Musa set a really strong pace on Saturday, so we knew we had to stay patient and keep chipping away. Being nine seconds down overnight wasn’t a bad place to be, because there was a lot of road left. On Sunday we found our rhythm, and once we got going on Black Thunder (R) we just kept pushing. It was a proper fight with a great competitor, and I’m delighted to take the win in Round 2.”

Addressing the Silent Burden of Nerve Pain: Hyderabad Doctors Highlight Early Intervention During Global Pain Awareness Month

“Hyderabad: “Long sitting hours, high-stress desk environments, and minimal physical activity are increasingly contributing to nerve-related discomfort among Hyderabad’s working population. This Pain Awareness Month, medical specialists in the city are drawing attention to an uptick in sciatica, neck-to-arm radiating pain, and early-stage neuropathic discomfort among young and mid-career professionals. “The discussion coincides with the International Association for the Study of Pain (IASP) designating 2026 as the Global Year for Neuropathic Pain, aimed at closing diagnostic and treatment gaps for nerve disorders worldwide. In metropolitan centres like Hyderabad, these challenges often manifest as radiating lower back pain dismissed as muscle strain, or hand and neck tingling attributed to routine fatigue. Furthermore, data from the landmark ICMR-INDIAB study indicates that urban India faces a significantly higher prevalence of diabetes than rural regions, creating a dual risk profile where metabolic nerve sensitivity overlaps with posture-induced nerve compression. “Dr. P. S. Vijayender Goud, Pain and Palliative Care Specialist, Renova BIBI Cancer Hospital – Hyderabad, notes: “When pain radiates down an arm or leg, or is accompanied by burning sensations or numbness, it usually points to nerve involvement rather than simple muscle tiredness. Extended static posture weakens stabilising core musculature and increases pressure on lumbar and cervical discs. We are increasingly seeing conditions like sciatica and cervical radiculopathy in individuals in their late twenties and thirties. Early clinical assessment, physical therapy, ergonomic corrections, and structured medical care for pain management are essential to prevent long-term functional impairment.”

Atharv Ability Expands Access to Advanced Neuro-Rehabilitation Through Technology, Expertise, and Integrated Care in South India“

“Hyderabad: “Atharv Ability, an initiative by Lupin, expands its footprint with the establishment of a state-of-the-art neuro-rehabilitation facility in Gachibowli, Hyderabad. The Center marks Atharv Ability’s entry into South India and builds on the experience and clinical model developed through its presence in Mumbai. “The Hyderabad facility has been designed to address the growing need for comprehensive neurological rehabilitation by combining advanced technologies, clinical expertise, and multidisciplinary care. The Center focuses on helping individuals affected by neurological and developmental conditions improve functional outcomes, regain independence, and enhance quality of life. “According to the World Health Organization, neurological conditions affect more than three billion people worldwide and are now the leading cause of ill health and disability globally. Stroke remains among the largest contributors to this burden, often leaving survivors with long-term physical, cognitive, and communication challenges that require sustained rehabilitation and support. “India accounts for nearly 10% of the global stroke burden, with more than 1.25 million new stroke cases reported in 2021. As life expectancy increases and risk factors such as hypertension, diabetes, sedentary lifestyles, and environmental influences become more prevalent, the need for structured rehabilitation services is becoming increasingly important. “Atharv Ability offers rehabilitation services for patients across different age groups and stages of recovery, including stroke, spinal cord injury, traumatic brain injury, Parkinson’s disease, multiple sclerosis, cerebral palsy, and developmental delays. These conditions often require long-term and coordinated intervention involving several therapeutic specialties. The Center’s model is therefore built around multidisciplinary collaboration, enabling clinicians to develop comprehensive rehabilitation plans that evolve alongside patient needs.
