Road Becomes Accident-Prone Zone as Officials Fail to Act – Prajavani Voluntary Organisation

“RAMANTHAPUR, SEPTEMBER 6 (INDIAN CHRONICLE): Alleging that people are facing severe difficulties due to the negligence of officials in road works within the Medchal–Malkajgiri Municipal Corporation limits, members of the Prajavani Voluntary Organisation staged a protest at Krishna Hotel Junction. Speaking on the occasion, the organisation’s representatives said that a tar road was constructed from ARM Hospital to Old Ramanthapur in Ramanthapur Division under Uppal Circle at a cost of approximately Rs. 1 crore. They said that initially only one layer of the road was laid, and a second layer was added six months later following repeated requests from the public. However, they alleged that the covers of around 60 underground manholes had been left incomplete and were not brought up to the level of the newly constructed road. As a result, the road has become uneven and full of dangerous stretches, causing severe inconvenience to pedestrians and motorists. They expressed concern that the road had turned into an accident-prone zone. “The Prajavani representatives alleged that they had repeatedly brought the issue to the attention of officials of the Medchal–Malkajgiri Municipal Corporation in person, but no action had been taken so far. They questioned why the manhole cover works had not been completed even though nearly a year had passed since the road was constructed. “Can the officials not see the difficulties being faced by the public? Whom should we approach regarding this issue? Who will resolve it? Why are the officials neglecting the problem? Why are officials responsible for serving the public not responding?” they questioned. “They demanded that the pending manhole cover works be completed immediately and that the road be made safe for pedestrians and motorists. Raghu Prakash, Teddu Ravinder Rao, Siddagoni Raju Goud, Auto Kumar, Vinod Chary and several local residents participated in the protest.

On the occasion, MLA Bandari Lakshma Reddy received the Seed Ganesha idol and called upon people to celebrate Ganesh Chaturthi in an eco-friendly manner without causing any harm to nature. He said that along with performing the traditional puja rituals, everyone should also take responsibility for protecting the environment. He pointed out that idols made with chemical colours and Plaster of Paris are polluting lakes and rivers and advised people, admirers and families to choose eco-friendly Seed Ganesha idols as an alternative. The Seed Ganesha idols are made using natural clay, coco peat and coconut fibre, with seeds of native trees such as neem and tamarind embedded inside them. Representatives of the organisation said the movement initiated by the Government of India and JRC partner organisations had now gained global recognition. “Speaking at a programme organised on the occasion of Teachers’

Day, Ashrita director S. Nagaraju said declaring an international day alone would not eliminate child marriage and stressed the need for sustained grassroots action. ““Along with effective enforcement of laws, social awareness, access to education for girls and proper delivery of government welfare schemes are essential for a lasting solution,” he said. “Mr. Nagaraju said Ashrita had been conducting awareness programmes in schools, villages and panchayats and had, through legal intervention, prevented 242 child marriages in Hyderabad district so far. “JRC founder Bhuvan Ribhu’s advocacy at international forums was instrumental in securing the UN recognition, the organisation said. An initiative he raised at the United Nations received the support of 67 countries, including India, under the leadership of Sierra Leone, paving the way for the resolution. “The JRC campaign is currently being implemented across 782 districts in India by bringing together government departments, police, panchayats, women’s groups and religious leaders. The organisation claims that more than 55 lakh child marriages have been prevented nationwide through the campaign.

According to villagers, the canal deteriorated and collapsed following untimely heavy rains. They alleged that approximately ₹42 lakh had been sanctioned from a special budget allocated by the District Collector for the development and repair works of the canal, and the works were entrusted to a contractor. However, villagers alleged that the repair and development works were carried out with poor-quality materials and inadequate workmanship. As a result, the canal overflowed, causing damage to a newly laid CC road and creating a serious threat to the surrounding residential areas. “The situation reportedly became more alarming as the flow of water reached areas near the newly constructed Gram Panchayat building, school building and residential houses. Residents expressed fear that further damage could pose a threat to their lives and property if immediate preventive measures are not taken. “DYFI Demands Immediate Action” DYFI leaders criticised the alleged lack of response from officials and public representatives despite the seriousness of the situation.
