Hyderabad CP Flags WhatsApp Messages That Could Put Bank Accounts at Risk

"Hyderabad Correspondent, October 12 (Indian Chronicle): People should verify suspicious bank debit alerts independently rather than respond impulsively to WhatsApp messages, Hyderabad Police Commissioner V.C. Sajjanar has cautioned amid reports of a new cyber fraud. In an advisory issued on Monday, Sajjanar said fraudsters were contacting people from unfamiliar or international numbers with claims that money had been debited from their accounts. Recipients were then asked to reply "NO" if they had not authorised the transaction. A chartered accountant was among those reportedly defrauded, with losses running into lakhs of rupees, according to the advisory. Police described the suspected technique as an "auto-execution file attack" and warned of possible malicious activity targeting victims' devices. However, a simple "NO" reply does not ordinarily install malware, and the advisory does not establish precisely how the reported fraud was carried out. Sajjanar urged the public to avoid replying to suspicious messages or opening unfamiliar links and attachments. Any alleged transaction should be checked through the bank's official app or net-banking service, while suspicious senders should be blocked and their messages deleted. Those who lose money to cyber fraud should immediately call 1930 or lodge a complaint at cybercrime.gov.in. Early reporting may help authorities and banks trace and freeze the funds.
