Commissioner directs police to expedite disposal of pending cases.

Karimnagar October 06, Khaja Sikandar Mohiuddin (Correspondent): Police Commissioner Gaush Alam has directed officers to expedite the disposal of pending cases and ensure that investigations are completed within the prescribed statutory timelines.

Mr. Alam issued the directions while conducting a comprehensive crime review through video conference with ACPs, Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors of the Commissionerate on Tuesday. He reviewed the progress of investigations and disposal of cases on a police-station-wise basis.

He directed officers to accord priority to cases pending for more than two years in which the accused were yet to be arrested. Absconding accused in old cases should be traced, arrested and produced before the courts, he said.

The Commissioner instructed investigating officers to complete investigations and file charge sheets within 60 or 90 days, as applicable under law. Negligence in investigation would invite departmental action, he cautioned.

He also directed the police to maintain continuous surveillance on rowdy-sheeters, history-sheeters and habitual offenders and take preventive action against those likely to disturb public order.

Station House Officers were asked to formulate station-wise plans and targets to reduce case pendency and ensure speedy justice to victims.

Reviewing cybercrime cases, Mr. Alam directed officers to take strict action against mule bank accounts being used to facilitate cyber fraud. Cases should be registered against those responsible based on evidence gathered in connection with 29 identified bank branches, he said.

He also directed the police to make adequate security arrangements for the forthcoming Durgamata Navratri festivities and coordinate with organisers to maintain law and order and prevent untoward incidents.

Additional DCP Venkata Ramana, ACPs Venkataswamy, Vijay Kumar and Madhavi, besides other Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors, participated in the review.

Adulterated tea powder causes stir - fake names, food certificates

." "Khammam Staffer, October 06, Indian Chronicle.""The adulterated tea powder issue in Khammam district is causing a stir. With fevers and other health problems currently on the rise, people are expressing concern over the consumption of poor-quality and adulterated tea powder. However, medical evidence is needed to establish that this tea powder itself is causing health problems. It is reported that packets under the name 'Bargodia Tea' are being sold loose at just Rs.200 per kilogram. There are allegations that two tea powder dealers in the Mamillagudem area of the city have converted their homes into warehouses and are supplying retailers. Locally, it is being said that they are also setting up outlets themselves and selling the product. It is reported that tea powder is being packed under the name 'Pawan Marketing' in a lane at Bomman Center in the city. Doubts are being raised about the food license number and address mentioned on the packaging. There are allegations that the house number mentioned on the packaging does not exist in municipal records. Similarly, the address 'Star Tea Sales, Gandhi Chowk' is also reportedly appearing on the packaging. Despite having different addresses and license details, doubts are being raised about the name 'Bargodia Tea' appearing on the packaging. The concerned authorities need to investigate all these details and reveal the facts.""? Business worth lakhs every day?""There are allegations that a large-scale business in tea powder that is fake or suspected to be of poor quality is taking place in Khammam city as well as across the district. Local sources say that there are around 120 such tea powder outlets in Khammam city alone. While branded tea powder generally costs more than Rs.600 per kilogram, this type of tea powder is available for just Rs.200 per kilogram, and consumers appear to be attracted by the low price.""? Fake information on the packet?""Several doubts are also being raised about the information printed on the tea powder packets. While a quarter-kilogram packet is being sold for just Rs.50, there are allegations that Rs.120 is printed on the packet. Similarly, there are reportedly discrepancies in details such as the packing date, address, food license number, and house number. Food safety officials need to conduct inspections and establish the facts regarding these issues.""? Mixing of spices?""There are allegations that certain aromatic substances are being added to the tea powder for fragrance. There is also information that consumers are asking for mixing to be done in the tea powder when they visit the shop. However, what substances are being mixed and in what quantities will have to be clarified through official inspections.""?Supply to tea hubs?""There are allegations that this tea powder is being supplied to tea hubs that have mushroomed across Khammam city and the district. Moreover, there are also allegations that tea powder of the same kind is being sold at the tea stall in the Khammam Municipal Office, where the district Food Safety Officer's office is located. If these allegations are true, it can be understood how extensively the operation is continuing. However, the concerned authorities need to conduct inspections and reveal the facts.""? Is it causing illness?""With fevers and other health problems increasing recently in the district, people are concerned about adulterated or poor-quality food products. However, medical evidence is needed to establish that adulterated tea powder is the cause of fevers and long-term illnesses. Some doctors advise people who consult them for health problems to reduce or give up habits such as alcohol consumption and smoking. They also give advice regarding tea consumption based on individual health conditions."In view of allegations being made on such a large scale, Food Safety and municipal officials need to conduct comprehensive inspections and examine the licenses, addresses, manufacturing details, and quality of the tea powder mentioned on the packets.

BRS Hierarchy Rallies Behind Krishank at Secunderabad Court, Condemns Congress Government's Political Vendetta

"."SECUNDERABAD: Protesting the Congress administration's alleged high-handedness and orchestrated pattern of state intimidation, prominent leaders of the Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) converged at the Secunderabad Court premises today to express unqualified solidarity with party spokesperson Manne Krishank."The BRS leadership strongly denounced the ruling government's alleged maneuvers to weaponize state machinery, systematically frame Krishank under fabricated charges, and secure his incarceration out of political malice."Among the senior delegation physically present at the court to extend support were BRS General Secretary Dr. R.S. Praveen Kumar, Secunderabad MLA T. Padma Rao Goud, MLC Shambhipur Raju, and former Corporation Chairman Errolla Srinivas."Interacting with media representatives outside the venue, the delegation launched a blistering critique against the ruling dispensation:" * Suppression of Dissent: The leaders accused the Congress government of harboring deliberate malice to gag critical voices and systematically neutralize democratic opposition." * Constitutional Imperative: They asserted that BRS functionaries remain steadfast in safeguarding constitutional values and democratic rights, warning that any attempt to unjustifiably incarcerate opposition leaders will invite a decisive mandate of rejection from the electorate." * Institutional Backing: The senior hierarchy reaffirmed the party's unwavering support for Krishank, pledging comprehensive legal and political backing."A substantial gathering of BRS cadre, party activists, and office-bearers was present at the venue to demonstrate collective strength.

Flutter Entertainment India plants 400 saplings to create an indigenous fruit tree orchard at PJTAU

“““““Hyderabad:““““““ Flutter Entertainment India (FEI), the Hyderabad-based Global Capability Centre for Flutter Entertainment — the world's leading sports entertainment company, organized a tree plantation drive at All India Coordinated Research Project on Agroforestry, Professor Jayashankar Telangana Agricultural University (PJTAU), Rajendranagar, Hyderabad, to support biodiversity and create a long-term Indigenous Fruit Tree Orchard as part of its ongoing volunteering social responsibility initiative of 'Do More', which is focused on giving back to the communities where its colleagues live and work.“In partnership with our global volunteer partner, OnHand, and facilitated by Nirmaan Organization, the initiative brought together nearly 100 Flutter Entertainment India colleagues who volunteered their time to plant 400 saplings of climate-resilient trees across a designated one-acre area of the university. The effort contributed to the creation of an Indigenous Fruit Tree Orchard comprising almost 20 different indigenous fruit tree species.“““The initiative reflects FEI's emphasis on creating meaningful opportunities for colleagues to participate directly in community efforts. Through volunteering, colleagues are encouraged to contribute their time and skills beyond their day-to-day roles while supporting initiatives that create a positive and lasting impact in the communities around them. The plantation drive at PJTAU brought this commitment to life by enabling colleagues to come together and contribute directly towards an environmental initiative that will benefit the campus and wider community over the long term. Flutter Entertainment India provides its colleagues with two days of volunteering leave every year, enabling them to support causes that matter and give back to their communities.“Beyond the activity itself, the initiative is intended to create a long-term green resource for the PJTAU community. As the trees mature, they will contribute to increasing the campus's green and canopy cover, supporting biodiversity and the local microclimate. The orchard will also provide opportunities for students and researchers to observe and study plants, soil, biodiversity and sustainable agriculture in a living campus environment.
