The Jal Jivan Mission is Weak in Bihar

Journalist-Ajay Kr Mishra "BETTIAH/BIHAR, NOVEMBER 11(INDIAN CHRONICLE)" ""The failure Jal- Nal Scheme in Bihar has made the situation worried in rural areas of state where the rural people are away from the drinking water under Jal Jivan Mission of Bihar government which has been launched by the former Chief Minister Nitish Kumar to provide high quality of drinking water to rural people..In several villages of Bihar the the Jal Nal system has collapsed now only the structure of the Scheme is visible.Where the system is on function the people are drinking water without testing of the quality of water .The testing of water must be checked before the arrival of the monsoon and after the monsoon season.But due to the shortage of technicians and poor lab arrangements 45.4% villages of Bihar are affected. " As within two years the concerned department could not complete the testings of drinking water in all villages of Bihar.As in lack of maintenance in several villages of Bihar the scheme has collapsed and only remains are standing on the site.As in Bihar the testing of drinking water was completed in 20,343 villages in 2026- 27 where as 16, 955 villages are awaiting for the testing of drinking water where as the testing rate has increased in comparison of the testing rate of 2025-26.As in 2025-26 only the test work regarding drinking water was not completed in 14,088 villages of state." As several districts of Bihar are on the lowest rate of testing at present. As in Muzaffarpur district the villages about 770 await the testing of drinking water. In Aurangabad district-1142 villages, in Rohtas district-789 villages, in West Champaran district- 686 villages, in SitaMadhi district - 414 villages ,in Darbhanga district-711 villages, in Gopalganj district- 538 villages and so on other districts of Bihar .But Shekhpura district of Bihar only the testing work is pending in 8 villages against 244 villages, in Khagadiya 3 villages ,in Madhepura 59 villages and in Shivhar district 30 villages. " As the General Secretary of the Congress Party West Champaran unit - Vijay Kumar Mishra said that the government should be acquainted with the present condition of the Jal Jivan Mission of the government and try to complete the testings of drinking water in remaining villages of state as well as try to provide drinking water to the rural people of the district and other parts of the state for the welfare of the mass where the supply of drinking water system has collapsed ."

Search Operation Conducts in Lakhisarai

""On Wednesday a search operation was Conducted against tha Maoists movement in Tekhwa Hills locality and recovered one carbine rifle, 21 empty cartridges, a Telescope. As the police had got information about the appearance of some members of Naxal group in Jaimi Tola locality of Tekhwa Hills and after that the police organised raid in this regard But in raid no member of the group was arrested .As soon as the police appeared in that locality the gang members fled away to leave the weapon and empty cartridges etc on the spot." As it is noted that the major portion of the north Bihar was affected with Naxal movement in previous. Several district as Gaya,Lakhisarai, Arah, Aurangabad, Nawada ,Jamui etc were affected with Naxal activities. As in previous years the land of Bihar had seen several massacre and the people of such localities escaped from the localities and migrated in other cities or town of the state..As several private armies were formed against the Naxalites and criminals such as the Ranveer Sena in Gaya district of Bihar and the Shahidi Jattha in West Champaran. The peaceful atmosphere was collaped in several areas of the state .The Dynamite blast incidents occurred in the area of West Champaran as well as massacre incidents also occurred in the district which proved the appearance of Maoist movement in the district. The open Indo Nepal Border and the dense forest of VTR made a safe haven for the Nepalese Maoists and anti social elements. But after the formation of the NDA government in Bihar the situation became normalise and now the district is free from Naxal activities and people feel comfortable. " "

Children's Day: Remembering Jawaharlal Nehru and His Love for Children

""The past is not merely something to be remembered; it continually introduces new ideas, guides future generations and inspires reconstruction. Similarly, certain festivals and celebrations transcend barriers of caste, religion and language. They bring people from different communities and linguistic backgrounds together, adding special significance to our national unity and cultural diversity.""On the occasion of the birth anniversaries of great personalities who made remarkable contributions to the progress and development of our country, we remember their services and sacrifices. One such important occasion is Children's Day, celebrated every year on November 14.""India's first Prime Minister, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, had immense affection for children. During his lifetime, he loved celebrating his birthday in the company of children. Fondly known as 'Chacha Nehru', he believed that children were the future of the nation.""Nehru made enormous sacrifices for India's freedom struggle. He endured several hardships and spent many years in prison. During his imprisonment, his wife, Kamala Nehru, passed away. Even while in jail, he continued to contribute to intellectual and literary life by writing remarkable books such as Glimpses of World History and The Discovery of India.""He never hesitated to make sacrifices for the country. Following his death in May 1964, November 14, his birthday, came to be celebrated as Children's Day in recognition of his immense love and affection for children.""The main objective of Children's Day is to create awareness among children about their rights, promote their overall development and ensure access to better healthcare and quality education.""Former US President John F. Kennedy also emphasised that children are the future of a nation. The future of any country depends on the development, education, health and welfare of its children.""On Children's Day, special programmes are organised in schools across the country. Various competitions, including debates, drawing, fancy dress, singing, dancing, essay writing, elocution, quizzes, rangoli, memory tests and poetry writing, are conducted. Prizes are distributed to encourage students, while sweets are shared. Children celebrate the day with great enthusiasm, happiness and excitement.""During the tenure of former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, recognising her father's extraordinary love for children, Jawahar Bal Bhavan was established in the erstwhile united Andhra Pradesh. On June 23, 1966, it was inaugurated at Public Gardens in the heart of Hyderabad in her father's name, particularly to encourage children up to the age of 16.""The institution was established to provide children with opportunities to play, learn and receive training in various fine arts and creative activities. It continues to serve as a valuable platform for children to explore their talents and make the best use of such opportunities.""Therefore, all children should come forward and make the best use of these facilities, develop their skills and celebrate their childhood with happiness and creativity.""— Kommu Varalakshmi

Azad's contribution to education remains enduring, says Collector

National Education Day celebrated in Karimnagar; Collector calls for quality education for all.

Karimnagar November 11, Khaja Sikandar Mohiuddin (Correspondent): Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, independent India's first Education Minister, laid a strong foundation for the expansion of education in the country and his contributions to education, secularism and national integration remain enduring, District Collector Chitra Mishra said on Wednesday.

Addressing a National Education Day and Minority Welfare Day programme organised by the Minority Welfare Department at the Old Collectorate conference hall to mark Azad's 138th birth anniversary, she said he firmly believed that education was essential for empowering people, promoting social progress and achieving equality.

Recalling Azad's vision, Ms. Mishra called upon people to work collectively towards ensuring access to quality education for all, irrespective of their social and economic background.

She said cultural programmes and competitions were being organised in schools to familiarise students with the contributions and ideals of eminent personalities. She also assured minority community representatives that their grievances would be addressed if brought to her notice.

Earlier, the Collector, Additional Collector Srinivas Reddy, Special Deputy Collector Rajeshwari, District Revenue Officer Swamy, Minority Welfare Officer Jalaluddin Akbar and District Education Officer Tirupathi Rao, along with other officials and community representatives, paid floral tributes to Azad's portrait.

Later, Ms. Mishra distributed prizes to students who excelled in essay-writing and elocution competitions conducted in schools by the Minority Welfare Department.

BC Welfare Officer Anil Prakash, Collectorate Superintendents Kali Charan, Madhavi, Yamuna and Tajuddin, corporators Mohammed Yousuf and Huma, and minority community leaders M.A. Asad, M.A. Siraj, Siraj Hussain, Abdul Rahman, S.A. Mohsin, Abbas Sami, Mohammed Jameel, Riaz Ali, Ravi, Shabu, Rahman, Nawaz and Barkat Ali were among those present.

Land resurvey to cover 70 revenue villages in phases

Collector Chitra Mishra stresses grievance redressal; RDOs and Additional Collectors to conduct field-level enquiries during objection period.

Karimnagar November 11, Khaja Sikandar Mohiuddin (Correspondent): The district administration has drawn up a comprehensive action plan to ensure that the land resurvey goes beyond merely measuring land and determining boundaries, with the primary objective of identifying and resolving the grievances of every landowner at the field level.

District Collector Chitra Mishra directed officials to ensure that Revenue Divisional Officers (RDOs) and Additional Collectors personally visit villages during the objection period following the resurvey and conduct enquiries into discrepancies in land extent, boundary disputes and other revenue-related issues to facilitate their resolution.

She said the resurvey would be taken up in phases across 70 revenue villages in the district.

The Collector held a review meeting on Wednesday night with Additional Collector (Revenue) Srinivas Reddy, RDOs Sharmila and Jalakumari, Assistant Director of Survey and Land Records Kishan Rao and other officials concerned. She reviewed the progress of the survey, the next course of action and measures required to address objections.

The Collector said resurvey operations were already in progress in 27 revenue villages and directed officials to expedite the work and continuously monitor progress to take it forward to the stage of issuing notices under Section 9(2).

Another 27 villages would also be covered, for which fresh teams would be constituted after holding another meeting with interested licensed surveyors.

The availability of 10 additional rover instruments next week would help expand the survey operations further. So far, resurvey has been completed over an extent of 21,114.29 acres in the district, she said.

Emphasising the importance of landowners' participation, the Collector said resolving their grievances should remain central to the resurvey exercise.

During the objection period, RDOs and Additional Collectors should visit villages and conduct revenue enquiries into discrepancies in recorded land extents, cases of excess or short recording of land and boundary disputes.

Officials should extend the necessary assistance to landowners and take the initiative to resolve their grievances in a positive manner, she said.

She directed officials to conduct advance public awareness campaigns through traditional drum announcements to inform villagers about the resurvey process and the procedure for filing objections.

Flagpoles should be installed at appropriate locations to clearly communicate details of the survey to residents. Special training should also be imparted to Gram Panchayat Officers (GPOs) to ensure that villagers receive proper information and guidance.

The Collector further instructed officials to regularly publicise the progress of the resurvey through newspapers to keep the public informed.

Officials were directed to ensure that remuneration for licensed surveyors working in the field was released once every 15 days.

Considering the safety of survey personnel, protective boots had also been provided to guard against hazards, including snakebites.

The Collector reiterated that the objective was to complete the resurvey transparently and without causing inconvenience to landowners.

District Collector Chitra Mishra said the identification of beneficiaries for the second phase of the Indiramma housing scheme in the district had been completed.

Eligible beneficiaries had been identified in the Huzurabad, Manakondur and Choppadandi Assembly constituencies, and the preparation of proceedings in their names had been expedited.

So far, 50% of the proceedings had been prepared, and the remaining work would be completed at the earliest.

The proceedings would soon be distributed to beneficiaries through the respective MLAs, following which construction of Indiramma houses would commence, the Collector said.

Azad championed education and communal harmony, says Congress leader

Tributes paid to India's first Education Minister on his 138th birth anniversary in Karimnagar.

Karimnagar November 11, Khaja Sikandar Mohiuddin (Correspondent): Congress leaders paid rich tributes to Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, India's first Education Minister, on his 138th birth anniversary at the District Congress Committee office here on Wednesday.

The programme was organised under the leadership of District Congress Minority Cell chairman Mohammed Tajuddin, who led party leaders in garlanding Azad's portrait.

Addressing the gathering, DCC Urban president V. Anjan Kumar described Azad as an eminent scholar, freedom fighter and social reformer who played a pivotal role in shaping India's educational foundations. Azad firmly believed that education should be accessible to every citizen, irrespective of social or economic background, he said.

Mohammed Tajuddin recalled Azad's commitment to national integration and his opposition to the Partition of India. Born in Mecca, Azad served twice as president of the Indian National Congress and was conferred the Bharat Ratna posthumously in 1992.

He highlighted Azad's contribution to the development of India's educational and scientific institutions, including the foundations of the Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs) and the University Grants Commission (UGC). His vision for scientific research and technological advancement also helped shape the country's institutional framework, Tajuddin said.

He said Azad's advocacy of Hindu-Muslim unity and his belief in a united India remained relevant, particularly at a time when communal harmony and national integration needed to be strengthened.

District SC Cell and ST Cell chairpersons Arun Kumar and Shravan Naik, along with Congress minority leaders Nehal Ahmed, Ahmed Ali, Abdul Rahman, Laique Quadri, Khamaruddin, Mohammed Kaleemuddin, Jameeluddin and Siraj, and corporators Mallesh and Ikram, were among those present.

Several other party leaders and workers, including Sikander, Shahebaz, Saleemuddin, Ameer, Shabana, Hanif, Abdul Bari, Basheer, Wasim, Azeem, Sajid Ali, Arif Khan, Raj Kumar, Madasu, Meraj, Srinivas, Mahesh, Kishan, Jaipal, Saleem, Jamal Sab, Mohammed Jameel, Shazir, Anand, Sarilla, Ratan Raj and Anwar, also participated.

Former India wicketkeeper KS Bharat eyes UAE international future as he begins new chapter in Abu Dhabi T10

"""""Hyderabad: """""Former India Test wicketkeeper KS Bharat has revealed his ambition to represent the United Arab Emirates in international cricket, with the 33-year-old hoping to become eligible in February 2027 as he embarks on a new chapter of his career with Emirates Eagles in the Abu Dhabi T10.""Having retired from Indian cricket, Bharat has been exploring opportunities across the world, including in the United States and the West Indies, while establishing a training base in Dubai. The former India wicketkeeper believes he still has plenty to offer at the international level and sees the UAE as an exciting destination for the next phase of his career.""Asked whether he could eventually be seen wearing the UAE jersey, Bharat made no secret of his intentions. Well, the plan is that, to be very honest, but definitely there's still time for me. I still have to qualify the three-year cooling period. Maybe after that, I would be able to tell you. As of now, in February, my three-year cooling period will be done," Bharat said on the sidelines of the Abu Dhabi T10.""His comments offer an intriguing possibility for UAE cricket, which has increasingly attracted experienced international and domestic cricketers looking to continue their careers in a competitive environment. Bharat, who represented India in Test cricket, admitted that leaving the Indian system had been a difficult decision, but one driven by his desire to keep playing at the highest possible level.""""Playing Test cricket is an ultimate feeling when you're playing for your country. Nothing beats that feeling. And yes, you'll have to leave certain things behind and move forward in life and look at the positive option, which I did," he said.
